Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 18 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy and possibly thundery rain likely. Drier towards the west.

Today:
Heavy outbreaks of rain are likely in eastern areas through much of the day, with the added risk of thunder. Staying largely dry for Cornwall, Devon, and Somerset with the best of the sunshine across Cornwall. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain clearing towards the northeast during the evening to leave a dry night. Clear spells developing more widely as the cloud in the east breaks up. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Saturday:
Dry during the morning, with sunny spells and fair-weather cloud. Turning cloudy in the afternoon, with some showers arriving from the south. These becoming heavier and more frequent overnight. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Showers are likely on both Sunday and Monday, many of which could be heavy and possibly thundery. Turning drier through Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.